'A giant furrow across our county's heritage'

That's what the HS2 high-speed rail line represents. During 2012 the government has made it clear that the high-speed route is now fixed and will not be varied.

This means that HS2 will cut across Buckinghamshire's heritage from end to end, destroying a section of Grim's Ditch in the Chilterns and medieval village sites in Aylesbury Vale and beyond.

The Society does not have a remit from its members to oppose HS2 outright – but the protection and preservation of the county's heritage is one of our objects.

Last chance for Stoke Mandeville's deserted village?

If HS2 goes ahead, then what remains of the Saxon and Norman village will be bulldozed, including the old church ruins and churchyard. This pamphlet outlines what we know of the original Stoke Mandeville – and what will be lost.

£2.00 + 50p postage
